

Drayage Truck Regulation

Compliance Advisory

Effective Immediately — Dray-Offs are Illegal

It is illegal for a compliant drayage truck to exchange cargo with a non-compliant drayage truck outside of port or intermodal rail yard property anywhere in California.

Any drayage truck with a gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR) of 26,001 pounds or more transporting port or rail cargo (including empty containers and chassis) through, on, or outside of port or intermodal rail yard property, must meet the requirements of the regulation.

Motor carriers must dispatch trucks that comply with the Drayage Truck Regulation.
